Although Livingston's poem is overtly a nature poem about a stork, he didn't name the poem for the stork. His title, "Lake Morning in Autumn," draws a parallel, by contrast, with Frost's poem....

Lake Morning In Autumn | eNotes

The poet is painting a picture with words of a stork standing on its long thin legs in the shallow waters of an African lake at dawn. The stork appears to look both tired and sad: tired possibly because of its long flight to this spot; sad because it is all alone, its companion storks not yet having arrived. A NOTE ON THE POET

To Autumn . John Keats' 1820 ode to the fall season is one of the great classics of the poetic movement of Romanticism. The poem is a rich description of the beauty of autumn that focuses on both its lush and sensual fruitfulness and the melancholy hint of shorter days. Keats ends his poem evoking the closing of the season and finding a parallel in the beauty of an early-evening sunset.
