Lost. Nyx is the Goddess of Night and is the personification of Night. She is known by many names including Changing Woman, Gaea, the name of the Earth Mother, Kuan Yin, Grandmother Spider, Dawn, A'akuluujjusi, and Nyx-Sekhmet. In vampire history, Nyx has been worshipped by all Vampyres as the Goddess of Night since ancient times by means of rituals such as the Full Moon Ritual, held in her honor each full moon.

Speaking of "dark" events, the concept of "darkness" in the House of Night series is a complicated one. The word itself can refer to literal darkness or the metaphorical kind—evil. And as Nyx tells Zoey way back in Marked: "Darkness does not always equate to evil, just as light does not always bring good."

The House of Hades Nyx is the Greek primordial goddess of the night and hellhounds. She carries the mantle of night in her chariot pulled by two dark horses Shade and Shadow, covering the world with darkness. Nyx is one of the first beings to have sprung from the void of Chaos.

Nyx - Riordan Wiki - Percy Jackson, The Heroes of Olympus ...

Nyx is the Greek goddess of the night. A shadowy figure, Nyx stood at or near the beginning of creation and mothered other personified deities such as Hypnos and Thanatos, with Erebus. Her appearances are sparse in surviving mythology, but reveal her as a figure of such exceptional power and beauty that she is feared by Zeus himself.

Nyx - Wikipedia

Nyx was successful in retrieving almost all of her Shards of Night from Nightmare, Lord Librarian in Omnipotence City and from Hyboria in the Hyborian Age, but at the cost of her childrens' life. After returning to the present and battling the Avengers again on the living planet, Euphoria, the being granted the heroes and Nyx their wish, while Nyx took the last Night Shard from Euphoria, and arrived to her final destination in Long Island, where the One-Above-All's House of Ideas was.
